

See How You Can Upgrade Your Baseball Stadium With Custom Fabricated Windscreen

Baseball is America's favorite pastime, and teams around the country are creating more exciting experiences for fans. But there are still many stadiums that have not made any upgrades or renovations to their ballparks. If you operate a baseball stadium, you could give it the upgrade it deserves with the help of custom fabricated windscreen. This simple addition can increase safety, improve visibility for players – and give your stadium an updated look that will attract new fans. Let's take a closer look at how you can upgrade your baseball stadium with custom fabricated windscreen.

What is a Baseball Windscreen?

Midwest Cover baseball screen is made from our Permascreen materials, either Permascreen 80, our most popular athletic windscreen, or Permascreen Plus, our toughest windscreen for installation in challenging weather conditions. Midwest Cover baseball customers now have 10 color choices and 3 print options when purchasing baseball windscreen. Along with its industry leading 5 year 'No Fade' print warranty, Midwest Cover can now offer a full range of options to its athletic windscreen manufacturing customer segments such as stadiums, park districts, high schools, and colleges.

Why Install a Baseball Windscreen?

Baseball windscreen can be installed in all parts of your baseball stadium. Outfield fence screen is the most popular baseball windscreen installation, and our most popular printed baseball windscreen options.

Batter's eye is also popular windscreen application, and can custom fabricated to any dimension depending on your field's dimensions. Dugout covers are a great way to keep players cool on hot summer days. And bleacher screen can be a great value upgrade for your stadium, covering unsightly areas and promoting team, fans, and sponsors with logo printing.

2 Types of Baseball Screens

Baseball windscreen material choices from Midwest Cover now include a range of materials to cover every local weather condition.

Permascreen 80 is the most popular athletic windscreen - a weather tough vinyl coated polyester. Customers can make even simple logo designs stand out on 10 + color choices. New from Midwest Cover is Permascreen Plus, the toughest vinyl polyester on the market. It can stand up to years of outdoor wear and tear at baseball fields, tennis courts, and athletic facilities.

2 Factors to Consider When Installing a Screen

-Weather Conditions: An important factor to consider when installing a windscreen is the weather conditions. You want the screen strong enough to protect players from local weather.. Strong winds can stress windscreen, and Midwest Cover recommends Permascreen Plus for challenging weather conditions.

-Custom fabrication: Don't settle for prefabricated screens for your unique stadium. Custom fabrication makes for perfect fit on even diagonal or otherwise uniquely shaped areas.

Benefits of Installing a Screen

All of Midwest Cover's athletic facility materials come warrantied and customers can view spec sheets to see the opacity, tensile strength, and other features. A lot of fence screen out there on the market is imported and of dubious quality. Life's too short for bad baseball screen let's face it.

Midwest Cover athletic windscreen materials are shipped finished for quick installation and increased durability. All windscreen from Midwest Cover ships with four ply reinforced hems and brass grommets.

Color choices are one aspect of baseball windscreen that is often overlooked by potential buyers as they tend to consider the standard black and green most often installed on outfield fences. But Hager says that with over 10 vibrant color choices, customers are wise to consider using something brighter that will stand out.

Especially with printed screening, even basic logos and lettering really stand out on top of colored windscreen. Midwest Cover material colors are UV resistant so the vibrancy will last for years to come.

Finally, Midwest Cover's 3 print options make it stand out in a competitive industry, providing best value to customers with a wide range of fence screen requirements. Full color digital printing yields advertising signage quality fence screen when sales and branding are at a premium. Direct printing from Midwest Cover is an affordable, durable solution that yields excellent logos and lettering. Stitch-on panels allow for an economical solution for branding sponsors and supporters.
